CONDUCTIVITY-WARRANTY ON ALL ALUMERO GROUNDING-CLAMPS

ALUMERO Systematic Solutions guarantees the perfect conductivity, functionality and freedom from material defects of the grounding-clamps supplied by ALUMERO. ALUMERO Systematic Solutions GmbH herewith guarantees, within the scope of the ALUMERO functionality-guarantee for a period of 10 years, that the product ALUMERO grounding-clamps, when used and installed as intended, will provide the conductivity for the potential equalization between the module frames and the ALUMERO mounting system.

The warranty service only covers a subsequent delivery of defective parts if damage is reported within the warranty period. Possible legal warranty and liability claims are not affected. The warranty expires in the event of damage caused by faulty installation, unsuitable or unstabilized substrates including corresponding upstream constructions, effects of bad weather and extraordinary chemical and biological processes. In these cases, it does not lapse if the damage was demonstrably caused by significant material or construction faults. If damage is covered by an insurance against natural hazards, or can usually be covered by such insurance, no claims can be made either. The generally accepted rules of architecture, the assembly instructions supplied by us and, to the appropriate extent, separate planning documents and structural analyses shall apply to the assembly work. If shorter lifetimes are expressly stated for special components or for a special type of use, the warranty period is limited to this period. This guarantee only affects claims of our contractual partners, over which guarantee cases are to be settled. A direct settlement with third parties is only possible with our consent. Our current General Terms and Conditions of Business always apply.
